How to Use This Journal

Dreams fade within minutes of waking. This journal gives you one page for each morning, for 90 days: long enough to see which images, people and feelings keep coming back.

1 Keep it by your bed

Leave the journal and a pen within reach, so you can write before you check your phone.

2 Write first, think later

Start with whatever you remember: a feeling, a color, one scene. Details often come back once you begin writing.

3 Fill in the details

Mark your emotions, the key images, the people and places. Rate how vivid the dream was and how lucid you were (whether you knew you were dreaming).

4 Look for patterns

When an image returns, add it to the Recurring Symbols Tracker. Every 30 days, use the review page to look back.

5 Read the symbols your way

The Symbol Guide at the back offers common readings of 30 frequent dream images. Treat them as starting points: your own associations matter most.
